

A Purse Theft at the Supermarket

By Paisley

Today, Mum and I went to a supermarket.

We planned to buy some vegetables and rice for dinner.

“Let’s get some fruit for tomorrow,” said Mum.

We were looking forward to dinner.

When we were buying groceries at the market, I saw a lady wearing a blue shirt and a black coat.

Her handbag was in her trolley. She had forgotten to zip it up, and there was a purse inside the handbag.

Then I saw a man suspiciously looking at the purse inside the lady's handbag on the trolley.

When the woman was looking at some apples, the man unexpectedly stole the purse and pretended that nothing had happened.

I was in complete shock! I couldn't process what had happened, but then I suddenly yelled, "Help! There's a thief!"

The man tried to run away, but someone had already called the police.

I was glad and learned that we should keep an eye on our belongings. What an extraordinary day!
